writing material culture history examines the methodologies currently used in the historical study of material culture touching on archaeology anthropology art history and literary studies the book provides history students with a fundamental understanding of the relationship between artefacts and historical narratives the role of museums the impact of the digital age and the representations of objects in public history are just some of the issues addressed in a book that brings together distinguished scholars from around the world this new edition includes a new wide ranging introduction highlighting the role of material culture in the modern period and presenting recent contributions to the field a more balanced and easy to use structure including 9 methodological chapters and 20 object in focus chapters consisting of case studies for classroom discussion 5 fresh object in focus chapters showing greater engagement with 20th century material culture non european artefacts particularly in relation to issues of power indigenity and repatriation of objects architecture with pieces on industrial heritage in europe and on heritage destruction in china and the definitions and limits of material culture as a discipline expanded online resources to help students navigate the museums institutions holding key artefacts historiographical updates and revisions throughout the text focusing on the global dimension of material culture and bridging the gap between the early modern and modern periods writing material culture history is an essential tool for helping students understand the potential of objects to re cast established historical narratives in new and exciting ways

The Global Lives of Things

the global lives of things considers the ways in which things ranging from commodities to works of art and precious materials participated in the shaping of global connections in the period 1400 1800 by focusing on the material exchange between asia europe the americas and australia this volume traces the movements of objects through human networks of commerce colonialism and consumption it argues that material objects mediated between the forces of global economic exchange and the constantly changing identities of individuals as they were drawn into global circuits it proposes a reconceptualization of early modern global history in the light of its material culture by asking the question what can we learn about the early modern world by studying its objects this exciting new collection draws together the latest scholarship in the study of material culture and offers students a critique and explanation of the notion of commodity and a reinterpretation of the meaning of exchange it engages with the concepts of proto globalization the first global age and commodities consumption divided into three parts the volume considers in part one objects of global knowledge in part two objects of global connections and finally in part three objects of global consumption the collection concludes with afterwords from three of the leading historians in the field maxine berg suraiya faroqhi and paula findlen who offer their critical view of the methodologies and themes considered in the book and place its arguments within the wider field of scholarship extensively illustrated and with chapters examining case studies from northern europe to china and australia this book will be essential reading for students of global history
