Turf Management in the Transition Zone 2004-02-05 since the advent of hybridoma technology more than two decades ago numerous antibodies have entered the clinical setting as potent therapeutic agents their repeated application in humans however is limited by the development of human antimouse antibodies hama

in the recipient leading to allergic reactions against the foreign murine protein and rapid neutralization to circumvent these limitations many new antibodies have recently been tailored through recombinant antibody technology the initial clinical data show encouraging results thus demonstrating the potential of these new therapeutic agents the purpose of recombinant antibodies for cancer therapy is to present a collection of detailed protocols in recombinant antibody technology it is primarily addressed to scientists working on recombinant antibodies as well as clinicians involved with antibody based therapies as with other volumes of this series we placed the main focus on providing detailed protocols describing procedures step by step moreover each protocol supplies a troubleshooting guide containing detailed information on possible problems and hints for potential solutions antibody technology is a subject of constant and rapid change this volume therefore does not attempt to cover all possible current experimental approaches in the field rather we present carefully selected protocols written by competent authors who have successfully verified the particular method described given our own professional backgrounds and interest in oncology we chose to concentrate chiefly on therapeutic agents for cancer patients
