münsterberg s essays on courtroom psychology are based on his observations in trials dating to the early 20th century this work is a pioneering example of forensic psychology working as a harvard professor of psychology at the beginning of the 20th century hugo munsterberg sought to shed light upon aspects of criminal trials münsterberg s enquiries span the unreliability of witness testimonies and fallible nature of human memory plus phenomena such as false confessions and the complex psychology behind them in support of his analyses the author conducted experiments testing the recall of students demonstrating how their memories and responses varied widely despite receiving the same information to answer and remember the author is particularly focused upon the emergence of unreliable testimony due to coercion on the part of police interrogators the intense pressure placed on suspects and other involved persons affects the veracity of testimony with many prosecution cases dependent upon fabricated ideas false memories and self confident juries which produce poor outcomes rather than simply criticize the flaws from a psychological point of view munsterberg appends various suggestions for reform directed at prosecutors and investigators trial judges lawyers and treatment of the jury

À la tara westover s educated scorah s pensive ultimately liberating memoir chronicles her formative years as a jehovah s witness and captures the bewilderment of belief and the bliss of self discovery o the oprah magazine named one of the best books by women of summer 2019 scorah s book the bravery of which cannot be overstated is an earnest one fueled by a plucky humor and a can do spirit that endears her tale though an exploration of extremity is highly readable and warm the new york times book review a riveting memoir of losing faith and finding freedom while a covert missionary in one of the world s most restrictive countries a third generation jehovah s witness amber scorah had devoted her life to sounding god s warning of impending armageddon she volunteered to take the message to china where the preaching she did was illegal and could result in her expulsion or worse here she had some distance from her community for the first time immersion in a foreign language and culture and a whole new way of thinking turned her world upside down and eventually led her to lose all that she had been sure was true as a proselytizer in shanghai using fake names and secret codes to evade the authorities notice scorah discreetly looked for targets in public parks and stores to support herself she found work at a chinese language learning podcast hiding her real purpose from her coworkers now with a creative outlet getting to know worldly people for the first time she began to understand that there were other ways of seeing the world and living a fulfilling life when one of these relationships became an escape hatch scorah s loss of faith culminated in her own personal apocalypse the only kind of ending possible for a jehovah s witness shunned by family and friends as an apostate scorah was alone in shanghai and thrown into a world she had only known from the periphery with no education or support system a coming of age story of a woman already in her thirties this unforgettable memoir examines what it s like to start one s life over again with an entirely new identity it follows scorah to new york city where a personal tragedy forces her to look for new ways to find meaning in the absence of religion with compelling spare prose leaving the witness traces the bittersweet process of starting over when everything one s life was built around is gone
